Mohawk Ag Students Construct Building for Baseball Team

BESSEMER, Pa. — This spring, the Mohawk Agriculture program completed a large project. The Building Construction classes and Electricity classes designed and built a multipurpose building for the baseball team. The classes designed a floor plan and 3D design on the department's computers. The group broke ground in May 2007.

The footer was laid out by the students and dug by Marty Gwin of the Transportation and Grounds Department. The students laid the first-course of block and poured the concrete floor themselves. They then called on volunteers from Brenner Masonry to lay the first floor walls. Sean Brenner, Bunger Doug Curry, and Jeff Calandrullo spent extra time during three different days or evenings to complete the block work. The second story wood frame was again the work of the students. They framed the walls, covered them with Oriented Strand Board (OSB) and cut their own rafters for the roof. The students also nailed the decking and helped place the Slater's felt and shingles. The students helped with some of the siding but let the transportation and grounds workers complete the high work on scaffold. The transportation and grounds workers installed the doors, painted the block and set a scoreboard on I-beams during the summer. Also, one of Mohawk's art students painted graphics on the buildings during the summer.

The fall of 2007 brought the installation of drains for the building and field and electrical conduit for the scoreboard. A Tool Cat machine was donated by BobCat of Pittsburgh to dig trenches for all the conduit and drains. The students were able to observe a Tool

Cat in action. A Tool Cat is a multi purpose machine the can operate many different attachments that skid loaders use. The Tool Cat was articulated so it would not rip up the sod like a skid loader would. The machine demonstrated a trencher to cut the ditches for the conduit and bucket and brush attachments that were used to complete the project.

After local electricians pulled the wire through the underground conduit, the Ag classes continued work on the building. The students laid out the electrical system for the building and installed all the wire, surface conduit, and electrical fixtures. The students gained experience with stranded wire for conduit, fishing wire through the conduit and connecting all of the ground fault circuit indicator (GFCI) receptacles. The lighting fixtures used standard solid Romex wire and the new compact florescent light bulbs. The new scoreboard was able to operate during the first home game of the season and the baseball boosters now have an area for concession sales.

From the Officer's Station

2007-2008 STATE OFFICER TEAM
Pennsylvania FFA

Oh my goodness! Where has the year gone? It seems like just a few weeks ago, your 2007-2008 State FFA Officer team was being announced on stage at the 78th Pennsylvania FFA Summer Convention. Since then, we have spent 365 days serving the Pennsylvania FFA by conducting nearly 100 chapter visits, attending more than 50 chapter events, assisting at fundraisers, and representing the FFA at the 80th National Convention and to the general public. It has truly been an experience of a lifetime.

But what truly made this year meaningful was our members. All 11 members of the 2007-2008 state officer team began our year believing that we understood what service meant. Little did we know that each one of our 8,000 members (yes, we finally met that goal) would teach us not just the meaning of service but the meaning of the last line of the FFA motto: "Living to Serve." Whether these members were selling indian corn to raise money for a faculty member with an extended illness, making corsages for their fellow student's prom dates, helping each other prepare for the next contest, or painting light catchers for veterans at the ACES conference, the members of the Pennsylvania FFA took advantage of the FFA's endless opportunities and put not just their time but their heart and soul into each task set before them.

We are proud to be part of an organization made up of such amazing members.

By the time you FFA members and Lancaster Farming subscribers read this 1,400 FFA members will have competed in more than 20 Career Development Events (CDE's), witnessed the official kick-off of the FFA Saving Area Farms Effectively (S.A.F.E.) program, watched the 2007-2008 State FFA Officer Team retire their jackets, and welcomed the 2008-2009 State Officer Team to their year of service. For us, this past week has been bittersweet. We started preparing for the Summer Convention shortly after being elected, and we are excited to finally see this year's convention happen. However, all good things must come to an end, and so must our state officer year. We want all of you to know that it has been our pleasure to serve you, the FFA members and the public over the course of this past year and thank you for the endless opportunities you have provided to us. We all hope that we will continue to have the opportunity to serve you and the world of agriculture in other capacities through out our lives.

Each year, the Pennsylvania FFA Association continues to get better and better. After such a fantastic year together, we, the officers, have all agreed that we cannot wait to see what amazing opportunities the FFA will take hold of this year. Keep your eyes peeled, because we're convinced that our members are going to step up and stand out in the coming year.

Sincerely,
